FINE

SASANQUAS

Camellia Sasanqua is moving North! Sasanquas are in demand—both old and new varieties. Their true hardiness is unknown! They can stand abuse. . . . They can take it! Sasanqua uses are many!

The following varieties that are being propagated these days are not enough to go around. It will definitely be quite a few years before these finer Sasanquas can be grown in quantity from cuttings. 'Wood' is scarce! Plants are scarce! It would be a wise venture to get your stock plants and "future salesmen" now. A plant sells a plant.

We are happy to be among the first to offer these excellent varieties. . . .

SHISHIGASHIRA (Easily pronounced She she gah she rah)

Double - Bright Rose Red - Dwarf—Excellent for patios, rock gardens and pot culture. Blooms profusely, and when young—Heavy foliage.

USU BENI (ooh Sue Bayney)

Semi-double to peony—Orchid Pink, sometimes mottled white—Flower increases in size as it ages on the bush, color changing from pink to orchid. Enchanting. Buds often set on one-year grafts six to twelve inches down the stem, in clusters of two or more. Heavy bloomer. Flowers last.

LITTLE GEM

Full Double - Blush Pink - Upright growth - dense grower - Foliage "different" . . . interestingly beautiful.

CHOJIGURUMA (cho chee goo roo mah)

Anemoneforme—Rose pink—Occasional flecks of white. Exquisite. Growth erect.

HINO DE GUMO (he no day goo mo)

Very large single—White margined amaranth pink—Petals crimped. Handsome deep green foliage. Darn nice.

One-Year Field Graft.	Well Branched. 12-18"	$5.00
One-Year Field Graft.	Well Branched. 18-24"	7.50
*Two-Year Field Graft.	Well Branched. 18-24"	9.00
*Two-Year Field Graft.	Well Branched. 24-30"	11.00
*—Shishigashira only.

Florists are finding the flowers of the above varieties useful in corsage work. Additional varieties to be offered next season are Hiryo, Day Dream, Oleifera, Shino Nome, Showa no Sakae (if different than Usu Beni), and several others.
